The Dawgs will play the board game this year as always. Please wait for instructions each month; I will send them by the first of the month always.

No electronic gamesheets necessary from computer managers. Please play the games personally with your computer without using a computer manager.

Lineup vs LHP		Lineups vs. RHP

Rodriguez	CF-3	Rodriguez	CF-3
Meneses	1B-3	Lewis	3B-4
Mullins	LF-3	Meneses	1B-3
Crawford	SS-9	Mullins	RF-3
Massey	2B-9	Crawford	SS-9
Escobar	3B-4	Diaz	C-8
Grandal	C-8	Massey	2B-9
Taylor	RF-3	Grisham	LF-3
	42/33 + pitcher		42/33 + pitcher

These lineups will likely never be used as I will send monthly lineups dependent upon whom your starting pitcher will be. Diaz and Grandal can be pinch run for in the 8th or later of any game that is +/- 1 run; Robles runs and then the other catcher plays the rest of the game. Schmitt becomes the 3B-3 against RHP if Lewis is not rostered in any given month. Larnach can pinch hit in the ninth for Massey, Schmitt, or Escobar if an XB hit gives Dawgs a chance to tie or take the lead.

Midwest on Offense

The arms fell off on most of my starting pitchers from last year, and that means we have some offense but little chance of winning consistently this season. We are going to try to be competitive, but winning will depend on outhitting your team

Hit and Run: Almost everyone can steal a base this year, so let's play hit and run as much as we can. Best time is when Grisham, Massey, Mullins, Robles, Rodriguez, or Taylor are on first and any two-31 hitter is at the plate. Generally speaking, H-R when the Mongrels are +/-2 runs, less than two outs, and one of the better starting pitchers or double digit reliever is pitching for the Dawgs—in other words, when it is cost effective to take the chance. Don't waste possible CS when yucky starters are pitching, unless they get a grade advancement and show that this day might make it worth while.

Bunt: After a lead off double with any hitters except Schwarber, Rodriguez, Larnach, Lewis, or Crawford. Let's not suicide on the road this season—way too many 13s on these cards.

Stolen Base: Julio Rodriguez can steal a base per series on a straight steal. The should be +/- 1 run; otherwise use the hit and run instead if it is in play.

Runner Advance: Only if runner is “well around” for you computer players. For MG players, use Adams table.

Everything else: Use your judgment and play my team as you would your own. Roll the dice and enjoy the games without stressing about what I would do. Things are what they are this year, and my draft picks are going to other teams, so there is really little I am playing for other than the pride of winning as many games as simply as possible.

Midwest on Defense

This is a strong defensive team this season. Most players have plenty of games, so the bench will seldom be used from game to game. Diaz and Grandal are the slowest runners, so you can pinch run for either one of them (using Robles if rostered, anyone with better speed if he is not) in the 8th or later to tie the game or take the lead. The other catcher then comes in to play the rest of the game. Other than that, no need to pinch hit or change things up defensively.

As for game situations, generally speaking play my team as you would your own. Here are some things to consider as you play the games:

I still hate the infield in play. If score is +/-2 runs, play infield deep with zero or one out. If the score is tied, play the infield in for those situations; but if you DO score and there is still a runner on third base, go back to playing deep.

Let your runners take an extra base if the final valuation number is greater than 28. Make the throw if it is 28 or less. Generally do not make the throw to attempt to catch the trailing runner. If you are unsure what to do, play my team as you would your own if it were in the field. Use the Adams chart if you need special support for your decisions based on number of outs versus score differential. Again, emphasis is on having fun instead of following these instructions to the letter of the law.

Catchers always make the throw to try to stop a stolen base unless your advance number totals 36 or higher.

Midwest Pitching

The bullpen is adequate, but it is short in quality innings, and short in general given how many really bad starts I will have this season. In general, apply the pen aggressively as outlined below when I have a chance to win—let's define that as within three runs after six innings. Otherwise, look for opportunities to preserve the better relievers by using those middle grade men to finish off games. Seabold is on the roster with 87 innings and no grade bump to help preserve innings—he can replace a starter who is pounded out of the game, or he can pitch the last several innings if the Dawgs trail by five or more runs.

Please follow these rules carefully in order to insure that I have enough relief.

- 1. Every starter goes 5 innings unless pounded out of the game. Staple those bad starters to the mound for as long as they can last.
- 2. If the starter gets pounded out, enter Seabold for up to 2-2/3 innings to preserve the other relievers.
- 3. Muller and Whitlock never relieve—they are starters only.
- 4. For all usage for the rest of the relievers consult the chart on the next page.

Starter	In case of pounding in first 5 innings	Bullpen Usage After 5 th Inning
McClanahan	Seabold, Barria, Blach, or Fujinami for up to 2-2/3 innings depending on who is rostered	General roles Closer—de los Santos (backed up by Assad) 7th and 8th innings: Raley and Assad; Assad has 109 innings, although 54 of them come with no 5 point bump 6th and 7th innings—Hentges, Perez, Puk, Pearson, Patino depending on the roster for the month
Gonsolin	Seabold, Barria, Blach, or Fujinami for up to 2-2/3 innings depending on who is rostered	Use all the above relievers for one inning at a time, except Assad who can go two innings if there is a need to do that to get out of a game.
All other starters	Seabold, Barria, Blach, or Fujinami for up to 2-2/3 innings depending on who is rostered	After the fifth inning, if the Dawgs trail by 4 runs or more: Use the relievers who do not have double digit grades, in any order. If the Dawgs trail by 6 or more at the start of the seventh and Seabold/Barria/Blach/Fujinami has/have not been used, let them pitch the final two innings.
		After the fifth inning, if the Dawgs are within three runs: Use two of the lower grade pitchers other than Seabold for the sixth and seventh Then check the score again. If still within 3, use Raley or Assad in 8th and save de los Santos for save/win in ninth If extra innings develop, use any of Seabold/Barria/Blach/Fujinami to finish the game. Extra innings are the enemy!! At any point, if you are unable to fit the game situation to these descriptions, you are on your own to make your best decision possible. I am considering ways to increase my relief innings using the waiver wire and/or September trades and will address the issue as I can later.

Best of luck to everyone in TBL this season. The Dawgs are down again, but there are some good players on the team and occasionally we will surprise people. It just won't happen often enough.
